

PLYC News Letter, May 3, 2010

Recently I read an article on "Communication" that brought to mind PLYC's duty to communicate Club-happenings. Both before and after their fact.

The article emphasized that, "Communication IS THE Key To Better Relationships." And, that communication is not limited to verbal exchanges, but rather runs the gamut through body-language from eye contact, stance to muscle contractions. . .

Recently, word went out informing PLYC Members of 2010's two main events: "Docks-In" and "Boats-In". As expected that communique was successful. The docks went in on April 24, and on May 1, boats went in! Obviously, before-the-fact communication was effective. . .

What about after-the-fact? Specifically re Boats-in? Here we have a perfect demonstration of body-language telling its tale.

Energized bodies willingly, enthusiastically did what needed to be done to accomplish the task. After what could have been a major set back – our usual Crane Operator was stuck in Calgary, and might be able to get to us on Sunday – David Sunohara rose to the occasion and engaged Haliburton Crane, that was on site bright and early Saturday morning, rescuing PLYC from the inconvenience of rescheduling. (Recall last year? :-)

"Way-to-go David; boat-mover Rob Ferguson; money-changer Jack Bruyea; Ray Scott; Mike Chellew; Greg Horsley and all others who responded to sundry calls of " help," throughout the morning!"

The crane operators also performed another rescue: In the-nick-of-time they prevented a disastrous drowning. As PLYC's Rescue Boat was about to go under. The hoist slings got in position, and up rose the boat! A drain plug had inadvertently been omitted!

Another Club happening – of a heart warming nature: A Scow has returned home! Rob Ferguson purchased a "Bowland Boat Works, M-16," from a vendor in Wisconsin. Now, "Koloch" will compete Wednesday evenings with kin, in its birth place. Nice for Rob and Joe who welcomed his prodigal home.

It was a great day wherein PLYC's body-language communicated, "Herein dwell good folks!" Thank You for being one!!
