

Home » Alumni in the press

Hans-Peter Wagner writes book on financial management and globalization

Roland Berger alumnus Hans-Peter Wagner has authored a new book, now available from Peter Lang GmbH publishers. He was a member of Harald Simon's Partner team until 1994.

In his book, Wagner recommends that companies review their financial analysis and monitoring systems, especially in light of the current financial and economic crisis. As part of this process, harmonization with the rest of the management systems and the corporate culture should be given just as much weight as the demands of internal and external stakeholders. Given the increasing spread of international accounting standards, the interlocking of internal and external accounting should be re-examined. In addition, the way operational and management processes are represented in a company's IT landscape should be reviewed.

Wagner's book, currently available only in German, is titled "Finanzmanagement and Globalisierung: Wie sich Unternehmen an die neuen Herausforderungen anpassen" (Financial management and globalization: How companies are adjusting to the new challenges – 238 pages, ISBN 978-3-631-58565-8, EUR 29.80).

Source: Controller Magazin July/August 2009